

Komodo Dragon

Reptiles

Islands of Indonesia

What's on your mind?

Did you know that I have about 50 different types of toxic bacteria in my saliva? Also, because of hunting and habitat loss, I am now an endangered species.

Share

Wall

Info

Photos

Friends

I have a flexible skull and a tail as long as my body. I also have a rounded snout and a deeply forked tongue. My mouth carries about 60 teeth. My scales are strong like armor and I can grow up to ten feet long.

My main meal is always a kind of mammal. I am most known for eating mammals such as deer and horses. I am also known for eating mostly pigs, monkeys, goats, and water buffalos. I occasionally eat birds. I usually eat the animal's carcass.

I usually live in dried-up river beds and scrubby hillsides. I also like to live in open grasslands and savanna. My home is always a hot or dry place, which I prefer. When I find a place that I like I dig a hole with my claws for shelter.

Hill Mynah

Emu

Saltwater Crocodile

Riley
April 8, 2016