

Stuck In Disapproval

I saw Disapproval clearly
She was dark and flaming
She turned and I saw her disapproving eyes look me up and down as if checking for flaws
I saw her judging ears and her "fix it" hands
And heard her tongue ticking like a clock
And I felt like a bug stuck in a spider's web